In Whose Name?: The Islamic World after 9/11

In Whose Name?: The Islamic World after 9/11

A memorable and compelling photographic record from the Islamic world of today.

On September 11, 2001, the photographer Abbas watched the World Trade Center towers fall in New York?live on Siberian TV. It spurred him to begin a journey through the Islamic world that would last seven years. The photographs published here are the final result of that project.

Born in Iran, Abbas casts a sharp eye over a world seen by few from the West. Seeking out people and places that have been overlooked by others, he reveals far more?and in greater depth?than photojournalists who focus on flashpoints or who race to break the latest news. Abbas is acclaimed for his special ability to freeze a moment in a particular social or political conflict, to frame actions or gestures that instantly become emblematic: what he calls “the suspended moment.”

Recording a route through sixteen countries?including Iran, Iraq, Lebanon, Afghanistan, Saudi Arabia, Israel, Palestine, Turkey, Indonesia, Thailand, Kenya, and Zanzibar?Abbas’s pictures and the excerpts from his candid diary reflect the undercurrents of global disturbance, uncertainty, and threat. Yet there are gleams of optimism, too?a wedding, an impromptu ball game?that remind us of Abbas’s gift as a humane interpreter of our existence. 173 color illustrations
