WARNING: This book was written over two hundred years ago, so certain words, which we frown upon today, are littered throughout. Not for those easily offended. The A to Z Dictionary of the Vulgar Tongue is truly the Profanisaurus of the 19th century. The book was originally intended as a guide to the street slang for the upper-class men, to give them some insight into the crass language of the street. The book is crammed with thousands of words and derivations. Read the insults Georgians and early Victorians used on a daily basis. Examples of what to expect: SHITING THROUGH THE TEETH. Vomiting. Hark ye, friend, have you got a padlock on your arse, that you shite through your teeth? Vulgar address to one vomiting. MUTTON MONGER. A man addicted to wenching. WIND-MILL. She has no fortune but her mills; i.e. she has nothing but her tits and arse. TOSS POT. A drunkard. APPLE DUMPLIN SHOP. A woman's bosom. MOON-EYED HEN. A squinting wench. TETBURY PORTION. A c**t and a clap. WHIFFLES. A relaxation of the scrotum.
